CRAB CLAWS.

A Seville Tidbit, Eaten More For Fun Than For Sustenance.

Visitors in Seville see women carrying baskets full of crabs' claws, says a writer in the Paris Temps. The claws are cooked and people nibble at them more for fun than for sustenance, just as the Russians nibble sunflower seeds. But what is this crustacean? What becomes of the rest of him, especially if he is a crawfish, of his tail?

As a matter of fact the crawfish has no part in the business. The carraquenas, as the claws are called, are taken from a salt water crab, the Galasimus tangeri, which lives along the shores of Morocco, Spain and Portugal. Each little crab, with his one little wife, has a little cave for a home, and, adopting the Arab estimate of the other sex, he usually keeps his wife shut up inside the cave, meanwhile staying about the threshold himself and making a brave show with his big claws.

When the tide runs out the crab fishers crawl along the beach looking for crab holes. Either the crab is stalking up and down seeking what he may devour, and thus showing whether he has fine claws, or he is still at home, and the size of his doorway indicates the size of the householder. In the one case the fisherman cuts off his retreat by blocking his front door with mud. In the other case he digs him out. Anyway, he deprives him of his pinchers and sets him at liberty—to grow some more.

Right here appears the happiest feature of the whole affair, for the pinchers are not torn away from the crab at all. Instead he presents them to the fisherman—perhaps even with his compliments. It is a fact easily demonstrable that the crab can detach his claw by a muscular effort, thus making no hemorrhage, but leaving the stump in such condition that a new claw is soon grown. The fisherman simply takes Mr. Crab by the hand, whereupon he lets go, leaves the claw with them and runs off home without it. And as the claw is no longer of any use to him or to anybody else in the water and as it is salable and edible, the fisherman naturally takes it home and sells it.

Value of Lean Bacon.
 Lean bacon has a unique value in the dietary. It furnishes, according to a report of the United States department of agriculture, as much digestible muscle forming food as other meats and nearly twice as much fat, making the total nutrients and available energy derived from bacon much larger than from other meats. Bacon fat is easily digested, and when combined with other foods it appears to exert a favorable mechanical action upon digestion. Over 95 per cent of the fat of bacon is digested and absorbed by the body, and lean bacon, at the same time and even a higher price a pound, is a cheaper food than other meats. A fact made clear is that the fat increases the digestibility of other foods. For instance, fat meat baked with beans makes the beans more digestible than without the fat.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

The Game of Wildcat Is a Jolly One With a Trick in It.

In the game of wildcat but one person should know the secret. If there are others they should pretend ignorance, so as not to spoil the game. This person announces that he will first give each member of the company the name of some animal and that afterward, when one of the names given is called, the player having received it must do whatever he is told. Then the names are given to each in a whisper, with the strict injunction to keep it secret till the proper time. Instead of receiving separate names everybody has been given the one word "Wildcat."

Then the leader, taking his stand at the door (the narrower the better), says: "Now, all ready. The first animal whose name I call must go to the opposite side of the next room before I do or pay a forfeit." Then, calling "Wildcat," he rushes through the door, with, of course, the whole company in hot pursuit, all realizing when too late that they have been sold.

The Harvest Moon.
 The harvest moon is the name given to the full moon that falls nearest to the autumnal equinox. It rises for several successive evenings at nearly the same hour, giving to that month an unusual number of moonlight nights. It is caused by the fact that the full moon is at that season in that part of its orbit which makes the least possible angle with the eastern horizon at the point where the moon rises. The harvest moon is not known in tropical countries and is more marked in higher latitudes than with us, although we recognize and appreciate the beauty of the phenomenon. Occurring, as it does, at the time of harvesting, it has borrowed from the coincidence the pretty name by which it is known.

Faithful Ben.
 Not far from Mantua, in New Jersey, on the farm of A. C. Wilson, lives a faithful horse named Ben. For nearly seven years Ben has pumped all the water used on the farm.

Without any direction from his owner he goes direct to the tank every morning, operating the pump by means of a treadmill built for his use. The most remarkable thing about his performance is that he seems to be able to tell time to a certain extent.

While his duties at the farm pumps are a daily occurrence, the tank at the house is filled but twice a week. It is said that he can always be depended on to go to the house pumps at just the right time of week of his own accord.

Enigmas.
 The answer to each of these enigmas is the name of a celebrated American or English author:
 The value of a word—Wordsworth.
 Brighter and smarter than the other—Whittier.
 A manufacturing town—Lowell.
 The queen of the kitchen—Cooke.
 A meek animal—Lamb.
 Very rapid—Swift.
 Put an edible grain 'twixt an ant and a bee and a well beloved poet you will see—Bryant.

Music of the National Anthem.
 "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," is sung to music used by many other nations for their national hymns. In Germany "Heil Dir Im Sieger Kranz" is sung to the same air as the English "God Save the King." According to a French authority, Handel copied the music of a St. Cyr melody. In Bavaria "Heil, Unserm Koenig, Heil!" is sung to this air, and in Switzerland "Auf- Du, Mein Vaterland!"—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Frog's Riddle.
 A frog once gave an afternoon tea And invited a rooster and a bee; Frog sat in the middle And gave them a riddle, "And this is the riddle," said he:

"Dear friends, can either of you tell me Why is a rooster like a bee?" They both answered, "Yes, sir; We're each a good guesser, And we each have a comb, you see!"—Chicago News.

Smallest Thing With Backbone.
 The smallest thing with a backbone is the sinarapan, a little fish recently discovered by scientists in the Philippine Islands. It measures about half an inch in length.

CONDENSED STORIES.

The Nicely Graduated Politeness of Talleyrand.

Prince Michael Cantanzeno, who is endeared to America through his marriage to Julia Dent Grant, said on the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse on the way to New York, according to an exchange:

"I sink my title in America. An observance of titles is ridiculous in a republic. After all, simple republicanism is the only title."

TALLEYRAND DID NOT SAY A WORD.

Hean manners are the best. I have never been one to approve of Talleyrand's politeness.

"You know the sort of politeness Talleyrand's was—how it was graduated, as nicely as a centigrade thermometer, to all ranges.

"Talleyrand once gave a dinner party, and in serving the beef he graduated his manners to his guests' rank in this way:

"To a prince of the royal blood—May I have the honor of offering your royal highness a little beef?"
 "To a duke—Monseigneur, permit me to offer you some beef?"
 "To a marquis—Marquis may I cut you a little beef?"
 "To a viscount—Viscount, have some beef?"
 "To a baron—Baron, some beef?"
 "To an untitled gentleman—Some beef?"

Ministers' Vacations.
 Bishop McVicker of Rhode Island said one day in Providence, apropos of vacations:
 "It is sometimes asserted that clergymen take too many vacations. This is an important question, and an original light was once thrown upon it by a prominent Philadelphian.

The Knock-out Blow.
 The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knockout blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus.

Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact: that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ out of the prize ring as well as in it. We protect our heads, throats, feet and lungs, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knuckles us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and you protect your life in your most vulnerable spot. "Golden Medical Discovery" cures "weak stomach," indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, bad thin and impure blood, ailing kidneys, and all the organs of digestion and nutrition.

The "Golden Medical Discovery" has a specific curative effect upon all mucous surfaces and hence cures catarrh, no matter where located, or what stage it may have reached. In Nasal Catarrh it is well to clean out the passages with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy and while using the "Discovery" as a constitutional remedy. Using the "Golden Medical Discovery" cures catarrhal diseases, as of the stomach, bowels, bladder and other pelvic organs will be plain to you if you will read a booklet of extracts from the writings of eminent medical authorities, endorsing its ingredients and explaining their curative properties. It is mailed free on request. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. This booklet gives all the ingredients entering into Dr. Pierce's medicines from which it will be seen that they contain not a drop of alcohol, pure, triple-refined glycerine being used instead. Dr. Pierce's great thousand-page illustrated Common Sense Medical Advisor will be sent free, paper-bound, for 21 one-cent stamps, or cloth-bound, for 31 stamps. Address Dr. Pierce as above.

The Strenuous President Invites Political Oblivion.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, in his message to the Congress last Monday, has stirred up a hornet's nest on the Pacific coast, owing to the stand he has taken on the Japanese question as it has presented itself here. The President's attitude on this momentous question not only accords to the Japanese, under what he claims to be treaty stipulations, all the rights and privileges of our common school system, but adds fuel to the flame by recommending that this Asiatic and alien race be naturalized, to the end that they be given a voice in our government.

President Roosevelt, since he became our chief magistrate, has done and said many things that no other President has dared say or do, and that is why he has been called "strenuous," but his attitude toward this Japanese question, which is bound in time to become far-reaching, will, before he hears the last of it, convince him that he has carried his strenuousness a little too far this time. The American people will not stand for it, and if he does not recede it will be the cause of his undoing.

As an individual he may convert the white house in Washington into a black house by dining with "niggers." He can also send his children to school to sit side by side with the repulsive and infidel Japs. But, as the chief magistrate of this Nation, when he attempts to force such conditions on the American people, who claim the right to think for themselves in matters of that kind, he is carrying his individuality to such an extent that nothing can save him from future political oblivion—not even the great Republican party. Nous verrons.

The Local Knocker.

ABOUT the most dangerous person in any community is the "knocker." Of late he has been very much in evidence in Sonoma. He is a sneak by instinct and vicious and jealous by nature. He never has a good word for anybody. You will readily know the chronic "knocker" or villifier when you meet him. He walks with his head down and invariably has a sneaky hang-dog expression about the corners of his eyes. Among those who know him his utterances count for nothing. He knows this and always seeks out the new-comer to the town and valley and with his poisonous, lying tongue endeavors to create an unfavorable impression in the mind of the stranger against some of the best men and women in the community. Forewarned is forearmed. When you run across the person we have here pictured, and there is more than one of him in this community, treat his utterances with silent contempt and reserve your judgment until you are better acquainted with people and things.

The Present.

At this X-mas season bright,
It would seem an awful fright
If prosperous California should forget
A gift to White House Teddy;
And so we are quite ready
To offer a suggestion out of sight.
Let us send him C. O. D.
A crate of Japanese
With our compliments.
We'll greet him and just say
That we have more to spare,
And will send them over there,
To dwell with him in Washington, D. C.

THE City Trustees advertise in another column for bids for completing the New City Hall and work on the building will no doubt be recommenced immediately after the new year is ushered in. Owing to unforeseen conditions created by the earthquake of last April, for which some queer people in this queer town would hold the architect, contractor, his sureties and City Trustees responsible, little or no work has been done on the structure, which will now be pushed through to speedy completion by the City Dads.

SENATOR BEVERIDGE who is advocating the abolishment of child labor says, "The child of to-day will be the man of to-morrow." Can it be that the newest type of woman has got Senator Beveridge mixed and merged on the question of sex.

THE book on trial marriages is the literary sensation of the season but a book telling the truth about marriage trials would outshine it.

Most people know that if they have been sick they need Scott's Emulsion to bring back health and strength.

But the strongest point about Scott's Emulsion is that you don't have to be sick to get results from it.

It keeps up the athlete's strength, puts fat on thin people, makes a fretful baby happy, brings color to a pale girl's cheeks, and prevents coughs, colds and consumption.

Food in concentrated form for sick and well, young and old, rich and poor.

Grammar School Lads Defeat High School Boys

In the football game last Monday afternoon between the High School boys and the Sonoma Grammar School lads the latter won by a score of 21 to 0. This is the second time that the latter has come off victorious. They won the previous game by a score of 11 to 0. Evidently the High School boys have yet to learn to make a noise like foot ball.

At the December meeting of the City Trustees held last Wednesday evening a full Board was present, as follows: Trustees Hotz, McDonnell, Breitenbach, Wagon and Bates.

During the proceedings the most important matter that engaged the attention of the Trustees was the New City Hall, the construction of which was abandoned by the contractor some months ago and all work was stopped on the structure, which is about one-quarter completed.

Architect Lutgens and City Attorney Poppe submitted a notice for bids for the erection and completion of the uncompleted portions of the building, bids to be received at the regular meeting of the Board on January 2, 1907, at 8 o'clock p. m.

On motion of Trustee Breitenbach, seconded by Trustee Wagon, the notice was accepted and ordered published in the Sonoma Index-Tribune, and can be found elsewhere in these columns.

The following bills were allowed and ordered paid:

The City Clerk was authorized to make out a warrant payable to the California League of Municipalities for $10, being the annual dues of the Board.

An invitation was extended to the Trustees to attend the annual meeting of the California League of Municipalities, which convenes in Fresno on December 12th.

The saloon bonds of Frank Koenig and A. Aquistopace were read and approved.

The contract with the electric light company was continued for another month, and the company requested to place another street light at the corner of Second-street East and Patton street.

All ditches under the control of the city were ordered cleaned, and those on the premises of private individuals were ordered cleaned immediately under the supervision of the City Health Officer.

The Street Committee was authorized to have fifty square yards of gravel hauled and distributed on the streets of the city in need of the same.

The trees in the Plaza were ordered pruned and trimmed, and the roof of the old City Pavilion patched.

H. W. Gottenberg, having failed to qualify for City Recorder before the expiration of the statutory time after having been appointed at a previous meeting, was again placed in nomination and elected by acclamation. City Clerk Joe B. Small casting the ballot for him.

The Board then stood adjourned.

KNOWLES KNOCKS OUT CORNELIUS

A Lunky Punch Puts the Latter Down and Out in Second Round

The boxing contest in Santa Rosa last Thursday night brought out an immense crowd. They came from all parts of the county, not a few at the ring side being from Sonoma.

The main event was between Hornbuckle and Sullivan and the former won in the fourth round. This bout savored very much of a fake.

The exciting contest of the evening was that between Emile Cornelius of this place and Billy Knowles of Sebastopol. The bout was scheduled to go six rounds but came to a sudden ending in the second round by Cornelius going down and out from a right swing to the jaw.

The Press-Democrat reporter gives this account of the meeting between the two young gladiators of Sonoma and Sebastopol:

"The second preliminary was a rattling good one from the slugging standpoint, and was billed to go six rounds, but like the first ended in the second. It was between Emile Cornelius of Sonoma and Billy Knowles of Sebastopol.

"The moment the gong tapped in the first round both boys cut loose, and they had not been fighting half a minute when Cornelius went through the ropes and was pushed back into the ring by the crowd. He came back strong, however, and landed two terrible blows on Knowles' head. Just before the round closed both landed at the same time, and both went to the floor, but were on their feet immediately and were fighting like demons when the gong tapped.

"The second round started like the first, and it was only a question of who got the first blow. Neither displayed a bit of science nor did they try to cover up; they simply swung wild, and early in the round Cornelius missed a right swing for the jaw. Billy started a "hay-maker" about the same time and when it landed on Emile's jaw the latter must have thought he was kicked by a mule. His seconds did not wait for him to be counted out but rushed in and carried him to his corner and it was some time before he came too."

This is the first defeat that young Cornelius has met, although he has fought a dozen battles with some very clever boxers. It is a well-known fact here that he failed to train for the fight with Knowles and entered the ring over-confident. Hence his first defeat, which will probably be a lesson to him to prepare himself for future battles.

CORNELIUS VS. ROUGH HOUSE McDONALD.

It is Said the Young Pride of Sonoma Will be Up Against it Next Saturday Night.

It is said that Emile Cornelius, who will meet "Rough House" McDonald in this place next Saturday evening, in a ten-round bout, will be up against the real thing from a pugilistic standpoint.

The Sonoma lad has never yet met defeat and has won all his victories with his famous punch in one, two or three rounds. In meeting the "Rough House," however, it is claimed he will go up against a hard proposition, and if he expects to win he will have to make the battle of his life. His rugged opponent has many victories to his credit, too, and the meeting of these two young gladiators will throw all previous pugilistic contests held in this town in the shade.

Notwithstanding the "Rough House's" reputation for attempting to murder all his opponents in his mix-ups in the ring, Cornelius' friends will be at the ringside with all kinds of money to back up their favorite. The same may be said of the admirers of the fellow "as what roughs it," and there promises to be not only a lively scrap but also some heavy betting on the outcome.

Editor Granice is More Than Pleased

Editor H. H. Granice, of the Sonoma Index-Tribune, spent Tuesday at the county seat. He transacted business here during the day and found time to take a walk through the business district and note the great amount of building going on. Later Editor Granice declared he had always believed San Franciscans to be "the Trojans of the west," in rebuilding their city, but he was ready now to award the palm to Santa Rosa instead of the metropolis. He was delighted with what he saw of the substantial structures being erected and was loud in his praise of the great energy being put forth by local capitalists to have a more beautiful and up-to-date city—Santa Rosa Republic.

WHISKERS.

Once upon a time the eloquent shaven man used to be told that he looked like a groom. To tell him so at the present day would be, by implication, to insult Mr. Chamberlain. Winston Churchill and the bishop of London. Very similar, though in the opposite direction, has been the evolution of public opinion with regard to whiskers. At the time of the Crimean war they were the badge of the military caste and were the center of sentiment accordingly. One remembers a song, once popular, of which the refrain was, "The captain with his whiskers cast a sly glance at me." To quote it is like calling up the ghost of a forgotten past. It reminds us no less of the modesty of the early Victorian maiden than of the lady killing propensities of the early Victorian warrior. Whiskers were one of the lady killer's weapons in those days, and it would seem from the signs of our contemporary that when the hirsute circle is completed they may be made to serve that purpose yet again.—London Graphic.

German Court Dancing.

The German emperor insists upon good dancing at court, and the arranging of an evening party is one of his favorite pastimes. He is most anxious that the court balls shall be distinguished for their elegance and exactness that the smallest details shall be carefully planned beforehand. Each year, therefore, he chooses, either from his bodyguard or from the First Regiment of Cavalry of the guard, two brilliant cavaliers, who are excused from all military duties. These officers must dance to perfection, wear their uniforms with distinction and lead a cotillon with method and dash. They open the ball with a princess of the blood royal, and they and their partners bring the function to a close with a deep obeisance before their majesties. Upon their success in this exacting role their future career largely depends, and it is said and may easily be imagined that their exalted office is no sinecure.

The Little Wizard of Pine Street.

E. H. Harriman, "the little wizard of Pine street," is just what the nickname implies. In stature he is small. He is slight and does not look strong. He generally wears loose fitting clothes and carries his hands in his coat pockets. He is very quick of movement, also of mind. He "thinks like lightning." He is restless, full of energy, critical of detail, exacting, autocratic and almost finicky in many matters. He is, like Hill, moody and not a particularly pleasant neighbor when the mood is that way. He is fearful of opposition from any one. Relentless in purpose, incapable of restraint, implacable in enmity, daring in execution, he is the closest parallel to Napoleon Bonaparte that lives before the public eye today.—Exchange.

Alexandra's Jewels.

Queen Alexandra has a safe full of diamonds and pearls. She owns some wonderful colored gems, rubies, sapphires and emeralds, and the great Kohinoor, the property of the British crown, has been re-set for her. But the jewel she values most of all is her engagement ring—set with a beryl, an emerald, a ruby, a topaz, a jacinth and another emerald. The initial letters of these stones spell the name by which her husband is intimately known and by which she has always called him. Next to this in her affections comes the diamond cross given to her by the women of Denmark on her marriage and the crown of brilliants, set in silver, which the women of England presented to her on her silver wedding day.

Constructing a Play.

A fat notebook and a pencil are the stock in trade of that clever playwright, Captain Basil Hood. He declares that he always writes the fourth act, if it is to be a four act piece, before anything else. This is a comparatively finished piece of work before any other act is begun. The third comes next—this only a rough sketch—and then the second, while the first is left to the last. Collecting ideas as he works, the playwright makes careful notes, and then, introducing them into his work, remodels the situations and dialogue as needed.—London Graphic.

Little Jethou Island.

Jethou island is by far the smallest of the channel islands and boasts the distinction of being the smallest inhabited island in Europe, having, indeed, only one dwelling house upon it. It has a population of seven souls. It has no road or pathway or post. At the last census more than half the population of the island was absent, having gone to Guernsey market with the butter and cream from the Jethou cows. The weather being bad, the visitors had to stay at Guernsey during the census time.

THE SMALL TOWN.

Wherein It Has the Advantage Over the Larger City.

Small towns have their drawbacks. No man need try in these vigilant little centers to lead a double life. There are faithful, sleepless watchers at each end of the line, with several sentinels along the way, to report on his doings, his failures to do and his misdoings. Everything else failing, his very thoughts are searched. The faithful vedettes conclude from his smallest movement or lack of movement what must have in every circumstance meant. On his return home after every absence his friends and neighbors cross examine him as to every detail. He had better tell the truth, because some one will in due course turn up to point out his inaccuracies in a faulty narrative. In large cities very few, if indeed any, of our neighbors will worry much or at length about your doings or omissions. Few if any outside your own immediate circle of home and business life care for your doings while away. They are all too busy—too many people moving back and forth to be kept track of.

The small town has not, it is true, the sanitariums and the professional nurses of city life nor the freedom of the latter from neighborly vigilance, but it has the big city beaten to a whimper when it comes to the food supply. If Brown, the butcher, for instance, were to kill Smith's lump jawed cow or Green's black leg bull or Johnson's steer that had been a failin' ever since spring, or did he refuse to keep his shop neat and clean, every one in town would be notified of his misdoings and reprimanded and his business soon come to a standstill. He might as well, in fact, quit the town, for the dark deeds of which he had been guilty would be recited week in and week out as regularly as the psalms of David. With each succeeding season his criminality would assume increasing blackness.—Louisville Herald.

An Early Spelling Reformer.

An English paper calls attention to an early spelling reformer. Of Mitford, the historian of Greece, Macaulay wrote, "Mitford piques himself on spelling better than any of his neighbors, and this is not only in ancient names, which he mangles in defiance both of custom and reason, but in the most ordinary words of the English language." In Mitford's history the following "mangled" words may be found: Controul, studdy, labored, endeavor, literature, maring, roding, iland, pronunciation, favor, spread, florish, etc. "Why don't you spell your name 'folding' as your family does, not 'fielding'?" said Lord Denbigh to his relative, the author of "Tom Jones." The answer was triumphant: "For the very good reason that I am the first of the family that could spell it!"

Husbands. A woman furnishes the following essay on husbands: "There are three kinds of husbands—the young husbands, who make us unhappy because we are so jealous of them; the middle aged husbands, who break our hearts because they would rather make money or play golf than devote any attention to us, and the old husbands, who sicken us with their silly objections whenever we turn to look at younger men."—Chicago Tribune.

Secured His Speech Book. A remarkable case of the recovery of speech and hearing is reported in the London Lancet from the canton of Ticino, in Switzerland. An Italian, aged forty-one years, who five years ago became a deaf mute in consequence of a serious disease, was startled by the sudden appearance of a runaway horse. As he jumped aside to avoid the animal he uttered a loud scream and after it had gone by found that he was able to talk and hear.

In Praise of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

There is no other medicine manufactured that has received so much praise and so many expressions of gratitude as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is effective, and prompt relief follows its use. Grateful parents everywhere do not hesitate to testify to its merits for the benefit of others. It is a certain cure for croup and will prevent the child from getting into the hands of the doctor. It is especially adapted to children, as it is pleasant to take and contains nothing injurious. Mr. E. A. Humphreys, a well known resident and clerk in the store of Mr. E. Lock of Africa, Cape Colony, South Africa, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to ward off croup and colds in my family. I found it to be very satisfactory and it gives me pleasure to recommend it." For sale by L. S. Simmons, druggist.

"Mr. Shaw, of course, had to make an address, and I well remember one thing he said. He said that they who persevered in vegetarianism soon became as fond of vegetables as a certain aged Scot was fond of—was fond of—"

"He faltered and said that this Scot was one day observed to limp painfully. A friend stopped him and said:—"

"What! Lame?"

"Temporarily," the Scot replied, "I went home sober last night, and my faithful dog gripped me by the leg."

Safe In His Pocket.

The late Duke of Cambridge used to tell with considerable relish the following story of a friend of his, a celebrated colonel:

During the Egyptian war of '82 Major — was shot in the knee, and the projectile made a hole of some depth. When the surgeons were probing the wound and causing endless torture the poor officer begged to know what they were hunting about for.

"What! Looking for the bullet?" was the reply. "Why, I've had it in my pocket all the time."—Pall Mall Gazette.

$8.50 PUNCTURE-PROOF TIRES ONLY $4.80

Regular Price $8.50 per pair. We introduce 4.80 NAILS, TACKS OR GLASS. We will send you a Sample Pair for Only (CASH WITH ORDER $4.50)

NO MORE TROUBLE FROM PUNCTURES.

Result of 15 years experience in tire making. No danger from THORNS, CACTUS, PINS, NAILS, TACKS or GLASS. Serious punctures, like intentional knife cuts, can be vulcanized like any other tire.

Two Hundred Thousand pairs now actual use. Over Seventy-five Thousand pairs sold last year.

DESCRIPTION: Made in all sizes. It is lively and easy riding, very durable and lined inside with a special quality of rubber, which never becomes porous and which closes up small punctures that their tires have been pumped up once or twice in a whole season. They weigh no more than ordinary tires, the puncture resisting qualities being given by several layers of thin, specially prepared fabric on the tread. That "Holding Back" sensation commonly felt when riding on asphalt or soft roads is overcome by the patent "Basket Weave" tread which prevents all air from being squeezed out between the tire and the road thus overcoming all suction. The regular price of these tires is $8.50 per pair, but for advertising purposes we are making a special factory price to the rider. You do not pay a cent until you have examined and found them strictly as represented.

FULL CASH WITH ORDER and enclose this advertisement. We will also send you a nickel plated brass hand pump and two Simpson metal puncture closers on full paid orders (these metal at our expense if for any reason they are not satisfactory on examination).

We are perfectly reliable and money sent to us is as safe as in a bank. Ask your Postmaster, Banker, Express or Freight Agent or the Editor of this paper about us. If you order a pair of these tires, you will find that they will ride easier, faster, wear better, last longer and look finer than any tire you have ever used or seen at any price. We know that you will be so well pleased that when you want a bicycle you will give us your order. We want you to send us a small trial order at once, hence this remarkable tire offer.

GOASTER-BRAKES, built-up wheels, saddles, pedals, parts and repairs, and everything in the bicycle line sold by us at half the usual prices charged by dealers and repair men. Write for our big SUNDRY catalogue.

DO NOT WAIT for a bicycle or a pair of tires from anyone until you know the new and wonderful offers we are making. It only costs a postal to learn everything. Write it NOW.
